

- P.F.B. - Yea. Then they apparently had to leave it and allow time for it to cool down, radiation wise. And they moved it down slope about a mile and started covering it up with camouflage. They apparently pulled the reactor out of it and left it lay about 300 or 400 Yards away, totally exposed, in a gully. They took the engines out of it and left them laying near the reactor, and covered the rest of the Ship up.
- W.S. - What do the local inhabitants think about all of this?
- P.F.B. - Were not telling the locals - were concerned about panic.
- W.S. - Amn't some of the locals seeing some of this activity going on?
- P.F.B. - Well, they see it and they are frightened to death. They see the ships go in and out (They see the saucers come in and out). These saucers are picking up people.
- W.S. - Most of the locals are Apache Indians on the reservation, arn't they?
- P.F.B. - Jicarilla Apache, they all moved to town. They are picking up the people and altering them, placing implants
