"They went ^{up} straight up, I would say to about 200 feet and they stopped at that distance. If you had worked you would have missed the take off from the ground to the point where they stopped.

Fehr dogs were barking - they all barked at the same time Saturday night, about midnight. (Aug. 31, 1974.) Then they barked about three in the morning.

Monday 12:30 dogs barking again - "the T.V. was acting up about there too. The dog wouldn't go into the field, he usually follows me, but he wouldn't go out."

"The cattle were making a lot of noise that Sunday morning, the fence was broken in four places.
