

If Mr. Wilbur Smith's inquiries led to finding as early as 1950 that UFOs were classified as being more secret than the H-bomb, which was not exploded until 1952, then the subject was clearly considered of tremendous importance to the national defence of the United States. The subject apparently was also of considerable interest to Dr. Solandt, then Chairman of the Defence Research Board, who offered "full co-operation" of the Board during a discussion with Mr. Smith on November 20th, the date preceding the date of the memorandum. The project was destined thru the actions of Mr. Smith and his colleagues, who were seeking to develop a new technology, to be kept within the Department of Transport. It was only later that Mr. Smith's study became allied with the Defence Research Board in Project Second Storey.

As for the matter that "Flying saucers exist," many UFO investigators will probably choose to pursue this statement in the United States under their Freedom of Information Act, (as is being undertaken by Ground Saucer Watch in Arizona); but, it may not be until August that any form of 'Freedom of Information Act' is proposed, needless to say passed, by the Parliament of Canada. In the meanwhile, the search for available UFO files must continue in Canada within the narrow confines allowed by restrictive policies, reluctance to admit having UFO reports and files, and the deception practiced by public officials.
