M/Sgt John P. MITCHELL sighted a globular shaped object with a trailing tail about 1/3 the size of a half-moon in the sky. The color was orange red as fire and the trailing tail was blue like a gas flame. Speed was like a P-80 jet plane and the heading was NW to SE. There was no deviation from a descending course of 35° to 5°. There was no identifiable sound. Considerable motor noise at Kirtland AF Base drowned out other possible sound. It first appeared on a vertical azimuth 35° 01' 00" and horizontal azimuth of 221° 30' 09" according to transit measurements taken at 0730. It disappeared on a vertical azimuth of 05° 00' 03" and a horizontal azimuth of 166° 29' 00". Time in passage was 5 to 7 seconds. The exhaust trail was blue flame 4 to 5 times the length of the object. M/Sgt MITCHELL stated that the object looked like a plane hit by AA fire, gliding out of control on a long angle to earth. He further stated that it was in range of a multiple .50 cal. AA weapon."
