Of what type material would you make it? How large would it be, and what shape would it have? Describe in your own words a common object or objects which when placed up in the sky would give the same appearance as the object which you saw.

Very light but very strong metal. Big enough to hold engines, instruments and a few people. (Round) shape but able to become streamlined like a cigar. And it must be capable of taking in or have other smaller machines attached onto it.

32. In the following sketch, imagine that you are at the point shown. Place an "A" on the curved line to show how high the object was above the horizon (skyline) when you first saw it. Place a "B" on the same curved line to show how high the object was above the horizon (skyline) when you last saw it.

been a weather balloon, but it moved too fast for a balloon. It might have been an Aerial Phenomena, but I doubt it. It wasn't an airplane because an airplane can't hover over a certain spot, (unless you have a new one)

When I first saw it, it looked fairly far away. It was hovering in one position. The color was a dull red. It hovered for five minutes. Then it sped up quickly in a southeast to North course (158° to 20°). As it built up speed the color turned to a bright red. The speed was at least 1000 m.p.h. (I figured out its speed by this method, about a week before I saw this thing, I saw a jet plane, F-86, break the sound barrier. There was a great thunder clap. And a short time later there was another one. The speed of sound is about 720 m.p.h. and I know the object was going much faster than that. The object was pretty far away and it ^{was} still moving very fast. The altitude that I stated was just a guess. If it was an air plane it ~~would~~ would have to be fairly high for you not to hear its engines. It flew along for a time getting redder and redder. At the end of its flight it turned into a shape of a cigar (P.3). Three small round objects came from an extra dark part of the sky (probably a cloud) and merged into the bigger cigar shaped object. The one big object flew on for a few seconds and then just disappeared. There were no wings, tail or exhausts showing that I could see. Seen by ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~
