Dear Sir I had heard over Radio Television & news paper that the Air Force had fired a Midas satellite into orbit from Point Arguello Calif to spot 350 million copper needles into space on Oct. 21. Now I see in the news paper that these needles or Dipoles as they call them have not located by this time. Now I would like to relate to you my experience. As I went after our mail on Oct. 25 at about Eleven Thirty A.M. I saw a very peculiar sight. It was a bright fore noon the sun was out and we had a westerly wind. There was before me in my line of view to and the horizon a glittering belt running North + South of me as if the air was full of glittering golden needles I watched it until it was out of sight over toward the east. I related my sight to the rest of my family as I got back to the house. Now we see in the papers & over the radio that they have not found any trace of these needles or Dipoles. We thought it was our duty to report this incident to you.

This is our location:

We live about 60 miles north of Milwaukee Wis.
on the New U. S. Hwy. way 141

Or 60 miles North of Sheboygan Wis. on U. S. Hwy. way 141

Hoping this information is of value to you.

Kindly Acknowledge.

Thank You.

Yours Truly

Dear Mrs. [REDACTED]

It is highly unlikely that the "glittering belt" that you reported could have been the WEST FORD dipoles. Scientists, using the most refined and powerful optical and electronic methods, have thus far failed to locate these hair-like metallic fibers.

However, I would like to thank you for your interest and sense of duty in reporting your observation.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM T. COLEMAN, JR.
