about 20 minutes of 10 P M tonight looking towards the North a small red light moved very fast towards the south west.

There was no noise and in about 3 minutes I lost track of it.

Much too high & no noise and wonder if it might have been a satellite of some sort?

Shortly after this a light fast moving cloud seemed to move across the sky, and light from the moon made it seem like an effusion of life.
Would any satellite of a star crossed our skies about this time. Was a long way off.
